

In The Abstract

Please replace the Abstract with the following.

The present invention comprises a system useful for organization of information, ~~the system comprising a database comprising an authority table; at least one taxonomy table that is manipulatable by a user with adequate access permission to manipulate the user taxonomy table; and at least one summary table that is related to the authority table and user taxonomy table adapted for use in a computer system.~~ In an exemplary embodiment, ~~the present invention further comprises a method of creating~~ authorities and summarized information of an authority may be created for later access. ~~for a system of the present invention, the method comprising~~ Typically, ~~capturing a description of raw data are captured into an in the authority table; retrieving raw data from the authority table from which they can be selectively retrieved by a user.; Users may also summarizeing at least a portion of the raw data; examineing one or more elements in a user taxonomy table for an appropriate taxonomy element to associate with the summarization and/or authority and createing a new element in the user taxonomy table for an appropriate taxonomy element to associate with the summarization or authority if an appropriate element is not already present in the taxonomy table.; Users may further associateing the summarization and/or authority with the appropriate element of the taxonomy table; and storing the summarization with its associated element of the taxonomy table in the summary table.~~